

CHAPTER 21 — QUALIFIED DOMESTIC RELATIONS ORDER (QDRO)

2100 General Information

2101 Employer Reporting

2102 Report for QDRO of Current Year Earnings/Contributions (ET-2561)

2100 General Information

The law allows for the division of WRS participant rights and benefits under the WRS as required by a divorce action (Qualified Domestic Relations Order).

A Qualified Domestic Relations Order (QDRO) awards an alternate payee (former spouse) a percentage of a participant's WRS account (service and contributions), up to 50% of the balances on the divorce decree date. The portion of the account awarded to the alternate payee in the QDRO is deducted from the participant's account and transferred into a separate account established for the alternate payee. Once the account is divided, both the participant and the alternate payee receive a statement showing the new balances in both accounts.

Your employees may contact Member Services at (608) 266-3285 (Madison) or (414) 227-4294 (Milwaukee) with questions on QDRO awards. The Department's forms are simple to complete and contain all of the language required by statute for dividing a WRS account.

2101 Employer Reporting

If a participant is actively employed in a covered WRS position, ETF will send a Report for QDRO of Current Year Earnings/Contributions (ET-2561) to you for certification of any unreported hours, earnings and contributions through the day before the decree date. You will complete the form, retain the employer copy and submit the original and alternate payee copies to ETF.

Ordinarily we request hours, earnings and contributions for current year, however, according to 1998 Wis. Act 125, you may be asked to provide earnings for QDROs going back to 1982.
